Amore on the Amalfi

Benefitted Habitat for Humanity of Greater Palm Beach County

Palm Beach, FL (April 2, 2025) –Guests enjoyed an unforgettable Valentine’s Day as Amore on the Amalfi brought the romance, charm, and elegance of Italy’s famed coastline to Palm Beach. Hosted at the breathtaking private residence of Todd Michael Glaser, Kim Aimee Glaser, and Chloe Pearl Glaser, this exclusive soirée benefitted Habitat for Humanity of Greater Palm Beach County.

Dressed in shades of red, black, and pink, guests embraced the romance of the evening while indulging in light Mediterranean fare, decadent treats, and the sounds of la dolce vita.

From a dazzling aerialist performance, a stunning jewelry pop-up, a silent auction, and delicious dessert stations set against the breathtaking backdrop of a coastal estate, every moment was pure magic. Most importantly, guests came together to help build the foundations for brighter futures through affordable homeownership.

“Amore on the Amalfi was more than just a beautiful evening—it was a celebration of love, community, and impact,” said Julia Murphy, Chief Advancement Officer of Habitat for Humanity of Greater Palm Beach County. “We are so grateful to the Glaser family and all of those who joined us for a night filled with joy, connection, and purpose. Together we are helping build homes, communities, and HOPE across Palm Beach County.”

Chaired by Bridgette Caporaso, Erin Moye, Hollis Bradley Pica, and Matthew Dane Brookshire, Amore on the Amalfi was an evening of passion, purpose, and pure elegance.
